

NOTICE TO ACCOUNT ADMINISTRATORS

NMLS Consumer Access to Provide State Licensing Information to the Public

On January 25, 2010, the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System & Registry (NMLS) is scheduled to launch a consumer focused website, NMLS Consumer Access, which will make information about company, branch and mortgage loan originator licensees and former licensees publicly available. The purpose is to provide consumers a site to verify the license status and other relevant information concerning companies and individuals they may wish to work with.

What this means to your company:

Information that you have provided to obtain a license will be made publicly available as it is represented in your company's, branch's or mortgage loan originators' record(s) in NMLS. Such information will be made publicly available in NMLS Consumer Access on the next business day after it is submitted through NMLS to your regulator. Pending application information will not be made publicly available. No personal identifying information about individuals is being made publicly available.

To see a complete list of the information about your company that will be made publicly available, click here: Information about NMLS Consumer Access

What you should do now:

Review the information concerning your company, branches, and mortgage loan originators in NMLS that will be made publicly available to ensure that it is how you wish the information to be represented publicly. Submit a filing through NMLS to regulator(s) to make any changes you require. As a reminder, NMLS is a system of record for state licensure and any information submitted requires an attestation to its accuracy.

NMLS Consumer Access will be accessible from the NMLS Resource Center website at launch on January 25, 2010.

NOTICE TO MORTGAGE LOAN ORIGINATORS

Mortgage Loan Originator licensing information to be made publicly available through *NMLS Consumer Access

On January 25, 2010, the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System & Registry (NMLS) is scheduled to launch a consumer focused website, NMLS Consumer Access, which will make information available about mortgage loan originators. NMLS Consumer Access is being launched to bring greater transparency to the mortgage industry and to comply with provisions of the S.A.F.E. Act.

The following information in your NMLS record will be made available through NMLS Consumer Access:

- NMLS Unique ID
- Name (First, Middle, Last, suffix)
- Business Phone
- Business Fax
- Indication as to whether you are engaged in other business as director, owner, employee, etc
- Other Names ( other than the legal name, individual has used since the age of 18)
- Employment History (Full legal name of companies the individual has worked for including the current employer as supplied by the individual for the past 10 years; indication if financial-services related)
- License # by jurisdiction
- License name by jurisdiction
- License status by jurisdiction
- Sponsorship for License (companies that have sponsored this individual)
- Branch location associated with the individual

What you should do now:

Review your information in NMLS that will be made publicly available to ensure that it is how you wish the information to be represented publicly. Coordinate with your company in submitting a filing through NMLS to regulator(s) to make any changes you require. As a reminder, NMLS is a system of record for state licensure and any information submitted requires an attestation by you to its accuracy.

For more information on NMLS Consumer Access, go here: Information about NMLS Consumer Access

NMLS Consumer Access will be accessible from the NMLS Resource Center website at launch on January 25, 2010.